

Dear Mr. Paris,

Please accept my apologies for only sending you this thank you card now. Unfortunately, the life of a grad student does not leave much free time, though that is no excuse. I wanted to let you and your staff know how genuinely grateful I am for everything that you have done for me. As positive as I tried to remain about my alopecia, the truth of the matter was that I was losing way too much hair for it to not take a toll on my life.

After wearing your piece for only a week, I've only begun to realize how much of my life was taken away from me. I am no longer afraid to look in the mirror or scared to look down at the train or shutting myself off from the world, pushing away those I care for the most. I can now walk around with the confidence and love for life that I seemed to have lost somewhere along the way. It is almost as if I've been cured from alopecia itself and in my eyes, they are pretty one in the same.

Unfortunately, my hair is continuing to fall out at an alarming rate and I know it'll only be a matter of days before it's all gone, but as strange as it may sound, I'm okay with it and that is because you, Mr. Paris, have given me the strength to carry on with life and face all the challenges of having alopecia. I usually am not one to believe in destiny and fate but I truly feel in my heart that I was destined to meet you and find your salon. You are truly an angel and I believe you were sent to me as an answer to my prayers. I will forever be thankful to you 'or your gracious donation and more importantly, for the strength you have given me. You gave me hope and picked me up at my lowest. You have made me a believer, that there are truly genuine individuals out there. You and your staff went to ends to help me solely because of the size of your hearts.

I wish I had more to give you than this thank you card, but at the moment there is not much I can offer. However, I will never forget what you have done for me and how you opened up your arms to me in my greatest time of need. You make me want to be a better person and help others. I want you to know that I will strive to give back to you as much as you've given me. I will do all that I can so others such as myself know how absolutely amazing Joseph Paris and his products are. While it may seem impossible, I hope to one day help you in your time of need. No amount of words can express my complete thankfulness. Thank you and your staff for saving me when I thought it was almost impossible.

Thank you so much!

With undying gratitude,
Irene
